This landmark structure, completed in 1930, is part of a three-building complex totaling 1.5 million square feet and rises 45 stories above the intersection of LaSalle Street and Jackson Boulevard. The building’s biggest impact on the community continues to be the volume of tenant and visitor traffic, which views the famous lobby and the activity occurring on the two trading floors. Between 15,000 and 30,000 tenants, pedestrian commuters and participants in organized architectural tours travel through the lobby every day.
